QUEENS 86 FLY SPORT CONTEMPORARY YACHT STYLE

The new Queens 86' has been designed by Architects Vienna & Locarno of the TDF Studio in Milan, with the support of the technical staff of Queens Yachts, and built by Flag Marine shipyard in collaboration with the owner and his staff. It set off the sea in July 2011 from Cala de' Medici in Rosignano (Livorno).

Queens 86' Fly Sport is the flagship of Queens Yachts which, in occasion of this important project, has concretized the synergy with Flag Marine, Tuscanian shipyard with over 30 years of experience. From this cooperation, a high-performance, original, elegant yacht was born. Its racy and modern external profile with a fluid shape favors the increase in internal volume, creating a large space especially in the hall, the stern cockpit on the main deck and the fly. This is the first novelty in the family line of Queens Yachts, which in this model also introduces a second-pilot driving seat with foldaway console. Well-distributed spaces create a comfortable place for the sunbathing cover sofa. All the stylistic elements that distinguish Queens Yachts are refreshed in Queens 86' with an absolutely unique style: the windows of the superstructure, the wide glass walls, the big foldaway door which divides the cockpit from the hall, together with the inimitable performance of any Queens yacht. As an outstanding novelty, Queens 86' offers an engine as innovative as high-performance: four Volvo Penta QUADRUPLA 900 IPS engines have been installed on board. It is the first installation in Europe and the second one in the world. These engines guarantee optimal maneuverability, and the Joy stick enables mooring even without crew. Queens 86' can cruise at 25 knots (32 knots during testing). And that is not all: Queens Yachts and Flag Marine adopted the best technological solutions available on the market featuring the Seakeeper active gyro stabilizers giving a perfect stability during both harbor and open-sea navigation. The HUMPHREE flaps, another plus for this boat, offers satellite-controlled, automatic attitude stabilization at any preset speed, regardless of the sea conditions. For maximum agility during descent of the water toy, a garage in the stern is equipped with a truck system and a tender-lift system for the bridge. Versatility characterizes also the spacious and highly modular sundeck area in the bow, featuring a sofa with cover, an adjustable table, a complete cuisine cabinet and a sun pad. Queens 86', 24 m long, has two electronic lateral doors in the main deck and a brilliant disposition of spaces as for the galley separated from the saloon to guarantee the maximum privacy for the guests. The dining area can accommodate eight to ten people. In this area, which shows off a blend of Canaletto walnut and dove-grey lacquer, matched with brown leather upholstery, illuminated by LED light bars, one can note the refined decorative elements by MissoniHome, who skillfully express their passion and energy in audacious textures and colour combinations. As well as MissoniHome, there are also other exclusive labels, such as B&B, Poliform and Manutti. In the lower deck we find the sleeping quarters with 4 cabins: the master cabin in the stern, the VIP cabin in the bow and two guests cabins, each with a private bathroom. Aft, and accessible both from deck and inside, are the crew quarters composed of an en-suite cabin with three beds, bathroom and access to the galley. All cabins feature Hi-Fi TVs and Dolby Surround. In line with the brand philosophy, the Queens 86' incorporates the right mix of technical innovation and cutting-edge design: you can admire it in preview at the International Festival de la Plaisance of Cannes, 6-11 September, 2011.
